The search is still on for a decent wood-grain plastic vinyl. The original one used for the game is no longer produced. I have had no luck in finding a color and pattern to match it.

I'm leaning towards a plastic laminate called mila-naturel. I have a sample of the material, but I'm waiting on some darker samples that should be arriving in a few days. The roll is wide enough to accommodate the game, plus it has a good look.

There are still some details to examine before purchase, but it looks like my best options at this point.
